Tom Erb

Thomas Erb is the Director of Water Resources for the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power. His responsibilities include water supply planning for Los Angeles, managing expansion of recycled water, and developing projects for capturing storm water. Other activities include pursuing opportunities for additional groundwater storage, investigating water transfer opportunities, and seeking federal and state grants.

Conservation of water use by Los Angeles residents and businesses since 1990 has remarkably resulted in the SAME annual quantity of water, approximately 650,000 acre feet, being consumed in 2008. This despite an increase in population of about 1 million people, from 3 to 4 million, over the last 18 years!

The reduced water supply outlook for 2009 will present additional challenges for the DWP and the citizens of L.A. Tom Erb will describe proposed DWP strategies to deal with these serious issues.

Questions from the audience, as time permits, will follow each speaker's remarks. The public and press are invited to the meeting.

The next Valley VOTE meeting will be on Monday, May 18, 2009.
